Distinguished journalists!

I heartily welcome your visit to Korea. I am President Jung Kyu Sung of the Journalists Association of Korea.

The Journalists Association of Korea was founded on August 17, 1964 and celebrating the 54th anniversary this year. It is a front-line journalist group with the longest history, and also the largest professional journalist organization in Korea, with over 10,000 journalist members from 188 press companies nationwide. The World Press Conferences has held every year since 2013.

For this year, about 70 journalists from 50 countries around the world have gathered to participate for the World Press Conference.

Despite differences in country, gender, skin color, and ideology, we have one thing in common. It is that, we are journalists who strive for freedom and peace by telling the truth with rationality and a warm heart.

Today, with the topic "Role of press for Denuclearization of Korean Peninsula and World Peace" at this conference, I hope that participants share their farsighted views and have an in-depth debate in the hope of world peace. Especially, the single inter-Korean team participating in the Winter Olympics in Pyeongchang, Gangwon-do, Korea held from February 9th to 25th brings a mood of reconciliation to the Korean peninsula, you may have great interest in the issue.

As journalists from all over the world have gathered here for this conference being held in Seoul, Korea, which is the only divided country in the world, I kindly ask to share your valuable thoughts.

In addition, during the event, you will experience Korean traditional culture and its development phases by visiting major cities such as Seoul, Busan, Incheon, Daegu and Jeju.

After you return to your home countries, please share your experiences in Korea.

Lastly, during the World Press Conference, I hope you have a lot of fruitful talks with reporters from all over the world and stay comfortable and healthy.

Thank you.

Jung Kyu Sung
President
Journalists Association of Korea

Congratulatory Address

Greeting. I am Minister Do Jonghwan of the Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism of Republic of Korea.

I extend my heartfelt congratulations on the opening of the Journalist Forum for World Peace, and welcome journalists from all over the world who came to join this forum. Also, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to President of Journalists Association of Korea and members of the Association who have made great efforts for this forum.

It is very meaningful that the venue for discussions on the theme of 'Global Journalism for the Peace of the Korean Peninsula', for the peace on the Korean peninsula and further for world peace is held on Korea, which is the last divided country in the world.

The talks between the two Koreas have been cut off for the past decade, and North Korea's nuclear tests and missile launches have jeopardized peace on the Korean peninsula. But with the 2018 PyeongChang Winter Olympics and Paralympics, the movement for peace and reconciliation toward the world began on the Korean Peninsula, which is deeply wounded by the Korean War. North Korea dispatched more than 500 delegates, including 46 athletes, 229 cheerleaders, and reporters, artists and Taekwondo demonstrators to join the efforts to hold a peaceful Olympic Games. Participation of North Korea has opened the door to peace on the Korean peninsula and has laid the foundation on which the two Koreas can continue to exchange and communicate. I highly anticipate this forum will carry the momentum of the legacy of peace left by the PyeongChang Winter Olympics.

On the road to the unification of divided Germany, the press played a pivotal role, such as by dispatch of correspondents. I kindly request for your active support and attention as journalists for peace on the Korean peninsula.

During the period of forum, you will have a tour to traditional cultural sites and industrial facilities of South Korea. I hope you experience the charm and bright future of Korea in Jeju Island, the most beautiful island in our country.

Thank you.

Do Jong-hwan
Minister
Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism

Introduction of Journalists Association of Korea

WJC World Journalists Conference 2018

A sentence that records history,
Images that deliver reality of the scene,
Journalists who are passionately seeking the truth as their calling,
And always standing behind them, is the Journalists Association of Korea (JAK).

The Journalists Association of Korea was established on August 17, 1964, through the active bond of sympathy of front-line journalists. Since its foundation, the association has advocated five Codes of Conduct which are the democratic development of Korea, the improvement of journalists, the protection of freedom of speech, the promotion of friendship amongst the association's members, the achievement of peaceful reunification and homogeneity between North and South Korea, and the strengthening of ties with journalists around the world.

The Journalists Association of Korea is the nation's biggest media body, boasting a current membership of over 200 company members and 10,000 individual journalists. The association delivers 50,000 copies of its weekly paper across the nation to present various key issues and viable alternatives.

Also, the Journalists Association of Korea makes efforts to enhance capabilities of journalists by hosting various forums and seminars, and providing reporters with financial support for short- or long-term training programs or studies at domestic graduate schools.

We present the annual Korea Journalist Award, which is the most prestigious and long-standing award in Korea's journalism, as well as the Award for Journalist of the Month. By doing so, we raise the morale of frontline journalists and encourage them to write quality articles, initiating efforts for the press to regain trust of the public.

At the same time, with a view to bolster the public role of the press, we have steadily engaged in the so-called "talent donation" by sending reporters to elementary, middle and high schools. We also make donation for less fortunate neighbors every year. To give students a chance to deepen their thinking, we host national students essay contest. To boost member's unit and friendship, we hold national reporters' soccer competition and reporters' climbing contest every year.

From early on, The Journalists Association of Korea realized the significance of strengthening ties with journalists around the world. Upon such realization, the association joined the International Federation of Journalists as a regular member in 1966. In addition, we take to enjoy regular exchanges and visits with the All-China Journalists Association in 1993, Vietnam Journalists Association in 1994, Indonesian Journalists Association in 2013, Confederation of Mongolian Journalists in 2014, and the Union of Bulgarian Journalists in 2015, by mutually dispatching delegates to each other. From this year on, we plan to continue our exchanges with our counterparts in the United States after the temporary disconnection in recent years.

Regular exchanges with reporters from these countries are role model cases in people-to-people diplomacy beyond conventional diplomacy and greatly contribute to harmony and improvement in bilateral relations. Looking forward, we hope to expand our network with more journalists from foreign countries.

In addition, JAK successfully hosted the IFJ's general meeting for the first time in Asia back in 2001, as well as the East Asia Journalist Forum in 2003, the Asia Journalist Forum in 2005, and the IFJ's special general meeting in 2007. We also held a conference with journalists from Korea, China and Vietnam in 2012. After hosting the World Journalist Conference for three consecutive years from 2013 to 2015, the Journalist Forum for World Peace 2016, the World Journalists Conference 2017 and we are proud to host another World Journalists Conference 2018 starting today. We intend to take this event as a golden opportunity to propagate our commitment for the peace on the Korean Peninsula and consolidation of solidarity between the Journalists, hoping that it would bring the mood of peace and unification upon the region.

Mr. Jung Kyu Sung, the 46th president of the Journalists Association of Korea, and the Executive Department are determined to communicate with the public, realize social justice and closely monitor those who have power and authorities with keen eyes. Also, we will demonstrate journalism in which we stand by the less-privileged with warm heart. Also, we will take the lead in the efforts for our members' rights and welfare as well as our people's grand unity.

To this end, we will continue to strengthen ties with international outlets and build reliable friendships in the process. And, we will prepare for what lies ahead with constant reform and innovation.

Thank you.
